Macmillan
cancer relief

Once again the Blue Bell Pub hosted another charity-led event for the village's nominated recipient: Macmillan Cancer Relief. Thanks to the generosity of Maxey folk and guests we have increased funds by another £250.

The touring frog-race kit was assembled and ready in the pub garden at the rear of the car park. A full race card of 5 heats and a final race was offered and spread throughout the evening.

Donations to be a competing jockey and the profit from modest bets on the outcome of each race were placed in the charity collection.

Race by race, the uncoordinated and the dexterous showed how it should (not) be done.

One of the largest crowds ever seen at the pub basked in the balmy atmosphere of sub-tropical Maxey (get on with it!, editor), alternating between the bar, the race card and just hanging around the outside of the pub.

A grand night was had by all, with the winner of the final being none other than the ace charity collector herself, Louise Duncan (right). Congratulations to her and all the other competitors and spectators.

On a hot summer's night would you offer your throat to the frog with the red roses? You would? I bet you say that to all the toads.

Frog no. 5 takes an early lead that wasn't going to be relinquished.
