KARAOKE NIGHT - Sell Out!!

by our own Pop Idol Correspondent - Mick Loveder

The karaoke night held at Maxey Village Hall on Saturday 20 April 2002 was a sell out. Over 204 hotdogs were consumed by almost 100 people. Many thanks to Stuart at Grassmere Farms for the delicious sausages.

Six people entered the Elvis Competition. Winner of the prize for best Elvis went to Andy Adams, and Maxey's smallest Elvis impersonator Gabrielle Loveder, got a highly commended 4th place from the judge. I'm not sure what Peter Hiller was doing with his left hand, but it sure looks painful! The kids sang great too.

Fabienne Loveder and Anneka Guerge sang with Will Trotman who is sure to be signing up for Pop Idol. Everyone danced to the singers, and Warren Garfords version of Sex Bomb will go down in village history, picture not printable without censorship! If anyone has a clean copy can they let Ian (webmaster@maxey.co.uk) have it. He needs to be punished for what he did to that song.

Mandy made the trip to the bottle bank next day with 72 empties, rumour has it that most of them belonged to Steve Crone judging by the picture.

Over £350 was raised towards the restoration work on the Church. Thanks to everyone who helped, and to all those who came and enjoyed the evening.

See you all again at the Jubilee bash, get practising.
