Maxey Art Group

Annual Exhibition

Over the first weekend of August the Maxey Art Group held their annual exhibition of paintings in the Village Hall. On the Friday evening invited guests were welcomed and viewed the exhibition. During the weekend there was a steady stream of visitors. Comments were favourable!

MAG Extra

It was pleasing for the artists that people were interested and came to see their work and a boost for morale when at the end of the weekend a quarter of the works had been sold. There were also unframed works by various members and hand-crafted cards made by Anne Smart for sale, which were very popular.

The group meets each Thursday, except in holiday periods, in the Village Hall and covers a wide range of media. The group is very supportive of each other. On occasions tutors are invited and when the weather is particularly good members are out and about sketching and painting.

There are usually 20 - 24 members and enquiries are welcome from those with some experience – telephone Kay Roberts 01778 344480.
